being a healthcare retailing model in South Asia. Today with an established network of 17 pharmacies across the Western Province, Healthguard endeavours to create a different shopping experience through a wide range of product offerings to its customers.

"Our business model aims to be more than just an ordinary pharmacy in our offerings, formats and solutions. It is about taking people "from sickness to happiness". Hence, we have taken steps to inculcate this approach to healthcare retailing in all of our people working across our 17 outlets," Shyam said.

The newly designed store aims to be the go-to destination for people seeking a holistic approach to better living. Housing a wide collection of brands including colour cosmetics, perfumes, spectacles, mobile phone accessories etc. within a larger floor area, the new store has been designed for convenience while offering a richer shopping experience.

The products at the new outlet are aesthetically displayed with all items presented in an easy, methodical manner.
